

Sisters are doing it for themselves

INTERNATIONAL Women's Day will be celebrated in style next month.

On Friday, March 6, Bromsgrove District Council is teaming up with WIRE (Women in Rural Enterprise) to host a day of special events in the Spadesbourne Suite at the Council House.

The proceeds will go to the council chairman's charities - Marie Curie Nurses and the Princess of Wales Hospital League of Friends.

With pampering treatments, top tips from local health and beauty experts and the chance to browse and buy, the free health and well-being exhibition is an event not to be missed.

There will be advice about colour therapy, nutrition, health and fitness, accessorising outfits and much more. The exhibition will be open from 10.30am to 3.30pm.

Fashion fans will also be in for a treat at the evening fashion extravaganza, which starts at 6.30pm.

Taking to the catwalk will be students from Inkberrow Design Centre with their unique collection, as seen at the Clothes Show Live, plus a range of stunning garments from local fashion retailers 2nd Skin Linagerie, The Clothes Rail and Simply Weddings and Parties.

There will be stalls galore with a range of gifts, jewellery, cosmetics and a performance from the Stage

Door Dance Academy.

Council chairman Caroline Spencer said: "I am delighted that International Women's Day is being marked in such a wonderful way. Please come along and help us celebrate."

Past events have proved very popular so booking early is essential to avoid disappointment.

Tickets for the evening fashion extravaganza cost £5 and are available from Jan Woolley, at the Council House on 01527 881378, Bromsgrove TIC on 01527 831809, Simply Weddings and Parties on 01527 833056 or the Clothes Rail on 01527 579500, both on Worcester Road, Bromsgrove.
